STOKES AGAINST MACKAY.

COUSIN ED HASN'T COLLECTED HIS $94,000 JUDGMENT.

Courin W. E. D. Kindly Lendo a Prop to the Obstacles in the Way-The Court Calls It an Extraordinary Proceeding. What Judge Barrett called an "extraordinary proceeding" was up in the Supreme Court presterilay, when Joseph Larocque asked for the continuation of a preliminary injunction granted to John W. Mackay, in which E. S. tokes was restrained from issuing an execution against Mackay for the collection of a judgment of $94,000.

Mr. Larocque stated that he was ready to pay the Judgment against his client as soon as Stokes had handed over $165,000 of bonds of the United Lines Telegraph Company, on which the judgment was obtained. He said that Stokes was insolvent, and that if the judgment were paid, his client would not be in a position to recover these bonds.

Mr. Larocque also said that if these bonds were not in the possession or control of Stokes, then their value should be used as a set-off against the judgment. He then read an affidait from W. E. D. Stokes that Cousin Ed is wholly insolvent, and that James D. Leary and George Putnam Smith, once Stokes's attorney have told affiant so. Mr. Larocque alro read a etter from Joseph H. Choate, in which the latter stated that he had a lien on the Mackay udgment for $5,000 for services to E. S. Stokes. E.ck Cowen, who appeared for E. S. Stokes, said that his client was ready to deliver the bonds as soon as the judgment was paid. Stokes, he said, had eighty-five of the bonds. He had event thirty of them to W. E. D. Stokes as collateral for a loan, and when the amount of the loan was tendered to W. E. D. he refused to accept it or to give up the bonds, and an action is now on against W. E. D. for the conversion of these bonds. The other fifty, Mr. Cowen stated, were bought in by W. E. D. Stokes at the sale of them by the Madison Square Bank, and they had never been in the possession of E. S. Stokes, Mr. Cowen said that the value of the bonds was now only two cents on the dollar, anyhow.

Judge Harrett asked Mr. Larocque what value he put on the bonds. Mr. Larocque what value he knew of no market value, but that they were necessary to Mr. Mackay as affecting the title to certain property. ateral for a loan, and when the amount of the Judge Barrett said that this statement would not do. He said: "Before you can have such an extraordinary remedy as that of restraining the collection of a judgment, or the issuance of an execution to enforce its payment, you must show the value of the bonds in dollars and

Mr. Larocque then asked for time to answer the affidavits in Mr. Cowen's possession as to the value of the bonds, and this was strenuously opposed by Mr. Cowen, who also went into the question of the alleged insolvency of E. S. Stokes, He said that mere hearsay did not prove insolvency. There was merely the affidavit of W. E. D. Stokes, who was known as an enemy of E. S. Stokes, and Mr. Leary had denied making the statement sworn to by W. E. D. Stokes.

D. Stokes.

I need not tell your Honor," went on Mr. Coven, "that a lawyer of the standing of C. Putnam Smith would not traduce his own client. This is simply an effort on the part of Mackay to evade the payment of a judgment which has been litigated for five years, and which has been litigated for five years, and which has been twice decided before the General Term and twice by the Court of Appeals. He now wants a stay on thirty bonds which are worth $600." Judge Barrett said he would give Mr. Larcoque until Wednesday to answer the affidavits as to the value of the bonds. s to the value of the bonds.
"And also as to the insolvency?" asked Mr. "And also as to the answerett. "You have abmitted affidavits on this question which have been answered by the other side. You say that Mr. Leary made certain statements, and these he denies. So that settles the matter. You may answer as to the value of the bonds."

WM. N. HART'S CANCER FATAL.

Pasteur's Treatment Afforded Relief at

First, but Fatled Finally. William N. Hart of San Francisco died of cancer on Sunday night at the Pasteur Insti tute. Mr. Hart was a newspaper man, and for Francisco Examiner. He had been suffering from a small cancer in the cheek for about two years. It was believed that the cancer was his cheek out of nervousness, and that is was aggravated by the excessive use of tobacco. The cancer resisted the treatment of the San Francisco physicians, and on July 7 Mr. Hart came to this city to take the sero-therapic treatment administered by Dr. Paul Gibter at the Pasteur Institute. He took this step on the advice of his San Francisco physician, with the full knowledge that the treatment was more or less experimental. Before deciding upon this step experimental. Before deciding upon this step, however, he had oeen assured by his home physicians that they could do nothing for him. At the time of Mr. Hart's arrival in this city the cancer caused him great pain. For some time after the process of inoculation with cancer errum was begun, the growth of the disease seemed to be arrested and the pain was relieved. This check was only temporary, however, and the cancer soon began to grow again. Mr. Hart became gradually weaker, and for a month before his death he was confined to his bed. His death had been expected for some time and his mother was with him when he died. The body was shipped to San Francisco, where it will be intered. Mr. Hart was 35 years old and unmarried.

was shipped to San Francisco, where it will be interred. Mr. Hart was 35 years old and unmarried.

Dr. Gibler and his assistant, Dr. ILabadie, were not inclined to discues the case last night, but said that it would be written up for the medical journals. Dr. Gibler added:

"We must frankly admit that in this case the sere-therapic treatment has failed. We do not claim and have not claimed to be able to cure all kinds of cancer by this method. It has been demonstrated by French physicians, however, that some cancers and malignant tumors yield readily to the treatment by serum. There are men alive to-day who would be in their graves except for the sero-therapic treatment of cancer. That is the most that can be said for it. As all physicians know, some cancers differ widely in their nature from others.

"There is nothing particularly new in this treatment except that it is just beginning to be applied to this particular disease. It is simply the application that has been successfully made in the anti-toxin cure for diphtheria. This is the anti-toxin of cancer. The patient is incoulated with cancer serum prepared from guinea pigs and other animals. One thing may be said about the treatment. That is, that if it does not cure, it is harmless and cannot result in injury to the patient."

Trying to Save a Dominion Steamer.

QUEBEC, Oct. 28 .- A despatch this morning from Cap a L'Aigle, near Murray Bay, says that the steamer Lord Stanley arrived alongside the steamship Brazilian at midnight, and then returned to Quebec to obtain pumps. The wrecking steamer Relief arrived this morning. If the weather continues favorable, the prospects of floating the Brazilian are good. She lies about live miles east of Murray Bay wharf, heading east-northeast, with a slight list. Divers report the starboard side all right. The tide is too strong to examine under the port bow. They will try again later.

RECOGNIZED AND ARRESTED IN A WILLIAMSBURGH BANK.

The Man Who Is Accused of Opening Bank Accounts Upon the Strength of a Bogus $19,000 Bratt and Then Perpetrating Swindles by Means of Bank Books, A man for whom the police of Brooklyn have been looking for nearly three months was caught at noon yesterday in the Dime Savings Bank, at Wythe avenue and Broadway, where he wanted to open an account by depositing a draft for $19,000 drawn on the First National Bank of Pittsburgh. The man gave his name as Charles Held, Jr., and said he had a wife and child living in Park avenue, near Broadway, Williamsburgh. Early one morning in the early part of August he called upon 19. S. Moulton, a lawyer of, 344 Clifton place, and retained him in a suit for damages which he had instituted against a man n South Brooklyn, and gave the lawyer a check for $50 as a fee. Held called upon him a few days later to have a check for $8,50 cashed, and Moulton took him to Ernest Rose's grocery at 340 Nostrand avenue and asked Rose to accomnodate the man. Held produced a pass book of a savings bank in this city which showed a eredit of $3,000. Rose cashed the check, and a few days afterward it was returned to him marked "No good." Held next called upon Freeborn G. Smith of 778 Fulton street, Brooklyn, and said he wanted to buy a $700 lyn, and said he wanted to buy a $700 piano. Before he left he succeeded in raising $12 as a loan, and gave as security three pass books on a savings bank in this city which showed alleged deposits of nearly $3,000. Smith turned the books over to the police. Detectives Reynolds and Weiser of the Central Office squad learned that a man who gave his name as Held had opened an account at this bank a few weeks before, leaving a draft for $10,000 on the First National Bank of Pittsburgh for collection. The amounts of his small deposits were raised. The draft was found to be worthless.

The Brooklyn banks and policemen were pro-vided with a description of Held and told to The Brooklyn banks and policemen were provided with a description of Heid and told to look out for him.

He went into the Seventeenth Ward Bank in Manhattan avenue, near Greenpoint avenue, Brooklyn, on last Saturday morning, presented a draft for $19,000, and wanted to open an account. The cashier refused to have anything to do with the man unless he had a proper identification. Held left and went to the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank, at Greenpoint avenue and Frankin street, where he presented the same draft to Cashier Paynter. Paynter also refused to honor the draft. Held appeared at the Dime Savings Hank yesterday, and presented a draft for $10,000 to Charles Kroeck, who was in charge during the absence of the cashier at lunch. Kroeck though he recognized Held and detained him until a policeman arrived and arrested him. He was locked up at the Bedford avenue station house.

He said he came from South Bend, Ind., a few months ago, and for nearly a week had been living in Park avenue, near Broadway, but refused to show the police where the house was. He was identified by Rose and Smith and by the cashiers of the Mechanics' and Traders' and the Seventeenth Ward banks.

He will be arraigned in the Lee Avenue Police Court to-day.

The firm was reorganized Jan. 1. 1895, when it claimed to have a surplus of more than $851, 000. The annual sales were about $2,225,000. It has a purchasing office in this city at 115 Worth street. While the general credit of the firm is said to have been good until a curtailment in its bank credit was made recently, its failure has not surprised bankers and brokers in this city very much. One large bank refused to take the firm's paper three years ago. It had accounts in three banks in the city, none of which, it is thought, will lose anything by the failure. Her husband, Henry McLean Martin, was a prominent and widely known man. Young Comstock, who was a speculator, was Mrs. Martin's favorlie nephew and made investments for her. In the latter part of August, Bartnet's setter stated, Comstock saw his aunt and teld her that through negligence he had allowed an assessment on some property owned by her in Grant avenue, San Francisco, to become overdue, and that it should be paid at once. Not having any ready money, Mrs. Martin gave Comstock some of her jewelry on which he was to borrow enough to pay the obligation. The jewelry consisted of a large pearl-shaped diamond scarf pin, which was purchased from Tiffany & Co. in 1881 for $3,000; a diamond and pearl brooch worth $1,500, and an Alexandrite set with diamonds and pearls in a bracelet, worth $1,850. what he knows of the case it appears that Mrs.

The return to the writ made by the grandmother said that the father, who was the custodian of the children, had taken them away, and that she did not know where they were.

So far she compiled with the technical demands of the law as to the return required, out John M. Howers, the attorney for the mother, contended that Mr. Fales had left town with the children, according to the statement of one of the servants, on last Tuesday, and that it looked as if he had gone away to escape service of the writ. Mr. Bowers also contended that the grandmother had made an incomplete return to the writ, in that she did not set forth when the children went away, or where they had gone.

Eugene H. Lewis, the counsel for the father and grandmother, declared that Mr. Fales had remained in town waiting for these habeas corpus proceedings, and that on the day of the service of the writ he said that he was going out of town for a few days. Mr. Lewis, as counsel, advised him that he need not stay here, and that he was at liberty to go when he liked. Mr. Lewis added that the mother waited from Sept. 21. the date she contended the children should have been given to her, until Oct. 21, when she knew that Mr. Fales was absent, to have the papers served.

Justice Barrett, after listening to the argument, said that a technical return to the writ such as Mrs. Fales had made was not sufficient, and that she was compelled either to produce the children, or set forth the facts fully why she could not do so. He added that she ought not besallowed to escape her obligations imposed by the writ, and ordered that Mrs. Fales not forth when the children had gone.

Mrs. Beale, who was the only party to the proceedings in court, was divorced from Mr. Fales in the State of Washington in 1895. The Mrs. Beale, who was the only party to the proceedings in court, was divorced from Mr. Fales in the State of Washington in 1893. The decree ordered that the mother should have the children, be Courcey, aged seven, and Halburton, aged nine, for six months in every year, and that the father was to have them the other six months. She got the children in September, 1894, and the next day married Joseph Beale of this city. She lived with her new husband and children until last March, when she delivered the children to the father. On Sept. 23 she was to get the children back, and as they were not produced, she began the habeas corpus proceedings which were heard in court yesterday.

MRS. LEHMAN WINS.

A Jury Refuses to Belleve that She Ever Posed as Mrs. Webber.

The divorce proceedings of Samuel Lehman agt. Henrietta Lehman were tried before Judge Gaynor in Long island City yesterday. Decision was rendered in favor of the defendant. The complainant is a well-to-do butcher, doing business at 230 East 106th street, New York, Lehman and Henrietta Sodin were married in December, 1892. Until April 16, this year, they lived together happily. On that date Gerson Stein, then 10 TH ST. 34 EAST. Large, warm room, well furnished, apple closely, every convenience; exproprietor of Hollender's Hotel, at 149 West 125th street, New York, called at Lehman's place of business and told Lehman that Mrs. Lehman had repeatedly stopped at the Hollen-der's overnight as the wife of George Webber, a man who at one time was in Stein's employ as ter, and it was discovered that Comstock had left town and had not paid the assessment.

Bartnet's letter concluded with the statement that John Wiley & Sons, publishers at 58 East Tenth street, and William S. Brown, an importer at 60 White street, were relatives of Comstock, and that he might go to them.

Detectives Holland and Plachler, who were assigned to the case by Capt. O'Brien, arrested Comstock yesterday afternoon in the Hotel Albert, University place and Eleventh street, where has been stopping.

At Police Headquarters Comstock admitted that the statements in Bartnet's letters were true. Part of the jewelry, he said, he pledged with a J. Macowsky of 211 Henry street. San Prancisco, for $800. Afterward he sold Macowsky the ticket for $100. The rest he had pledged with a J. Macowsky of 211 Henry street. San Prancisco, for $800. Afterward he sold Macowsky the ticket for $100. The rest he had pledged with a J. Macowsky of 51 Henry street. San Prancisco for loan of $1.100. Among Comstock's papers were several letters from Beverly, urging him to redeem the jewelry.

Capt. O'Brien notified Chief of Police Crowley of San Francisco of Comstock's arrest and asked for further instructions. The police also say that Comstock admits that he had got a relative in Providence to cash a worthless draft, Gen. Joseph Comstock, superintendent of the Post Graouate Hospital, who is a relative of the prisoner, has been in communication with Capt. O'Brien about the case. The police arem to believe that Comstock's aunt will not prosecute him. man who at one time was in Stein's employ as cashier.

Mrs. Lehman admitted an acquaintance with George Webber, but denied the accusations against her. Mrs. Gertrude Stein identified the defendant as the woman whom Webber brought to their house and introduced as his wife. Bertha Bigelka, a woman of all work at the hotel, testified that she frequently saw Mrs. Lehman and Webber in the same chamber, and Israel Owens, colored, gave similar testimony.

Mrs. Lehman, in her evidence, said that she called on her husband at the home of his father three days after the papers in the divorce suit were served and asked him why he left her. His response was that the proceedings did not amount to anything; that they were brought to enable the Steins to get even with Webber, they having had trouble with him.

President theorge Hart of the Second Avenue Company said that he thought the resolution should be so amended that only every other car should be heated and that signs should be put on the cars telling which were heated. He said that in the winter as many recopic complained of heated cars as of unheated. The suggestions will be considered by the com-mittee.

Heavy Storm on Lake Erte. BUFFALO, Oct. 28.—The storm which struck this vicinity early last evening was one of the most severe of those which are usually experienced at this season. Fortunately there not many vessels afloat, as a fleet of about thirty, which was ready to leave on Friday, had been warned to remain in port, and all obeyed except the schooner George Davis, which is now ashore twenty miles up the lake. The storm reached its height at 9 o'clock this morning, and brought with it a heavy wet snow. Along the harbor great waves broke on the piers, throwing sheets of water forty feet in the air. The life-saving crews were all on daty and the boats made ready for service. A number of vessels are expected from the upper lake to-day, and tugs are keeping a lookout for them. The thermometer registered 33° above at 11 A. M. not many vessels affoat, as a fleet of about Another Arrest for the Tonnwards Murders.

BUFFALO, Oct. 28. Sherd Walker, one of the men most deeply implicated in the murder of Capt. Phillips and his son at Tonawanda re-Capt. Phillips and his son at Tonawanda recently, and whom the police have been looking for ever since, was arrested here this foreboon while passing along Main street. He was taken before Superintendent Buil, but he obstinately refused to say a word. It is now known that Walker is the man who declared the suicide at Syracuse to be himself, the purpose bsing to throw the officers off his trail. Walker came to Buffalo for money. He arrived on a canni boat last night, and a man who recognized him at once informed the police.
